The aim of our project ‘Healthtastic’ is to spreading awareness on our society’s health and wellbeing. People tend to blame things on society, but we claimed up to the fact that we are society. And that society can better itself.

We started the YouTube channel ‘Team Futuretastic’ where we posted videos to spread awareness to digital citizens all over the world. We went to talks by famous doctors and health specialists and gave talks of our own, out of which a memorable one was in a Montessori school, Patasala. The children were taught to follow the green path and the way to a healthy lifestyle. As a way of encouraging them, we gave them each a Tulsi plant, a herbal plant which gives up to 5 times more oxygen than a normal plant. We also organised a stall to sell traditional food with no sugar or preservatives and gave the funds we raised to a special needs school. We have put a lot of effort in the hope of creating a healthy society in the future and it has changed our perspective indefinitely. We will keep going till the very end, until we reap the fruits for our hard labour - a healthy community.
